

Type Codes

Microbe Codes

Stabilized Codes

Bomb Codes

Product Codes

I determined that 4 characters were necessary for dry products, but not for liquid where green and conventional have the same recipe.

I deviated a bit from the structure in the case of white label products for DEI and Talc, because I wanted to be able to see and sort on the brand, and I didn't want them using up extra letters.

This has begun to break down a little as the list of products grew—ultimately there are only 26 available letters, and I've begun to have to reach for the leftovers.