

Development History

This document explains why I designed the database the way I did by discussing the history behind various decisions. It may not have much use to other users beyond mere curiosity, but it gives me a centralized place to record that logic so that other documents won't be bloated with it.